Water Takes 20 Lives; Cars 14: State Total 39

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Water was the big killer in New York State over the July 4 weekend. It claimed 20 lives. Highway accidents, usually the No. 1 holiday menace, took 14 lives.

Other types of accidents brought the holiday toll to 39.

Associated Press records, dating back to the early years of the decade, show no other holiday weekend in the state in which drownings exceeded the highway toll.

Of the water deaths, 11 involved the fast-growing sport of boating. One such accident took the lives of a father, his two daughters and another man. Three persons died in another boating mishap, two in yet another.

The perfect summer weather drew throngs to beaches and piers across the state during the two-day holiday.

The death toll compared with the 19 traffic deaths and 9 drownings during the two-day Memorial Day holiday this year. On a three-day Fourth of July holiday last year, 23 were killed in road mishaps and 9 persons drowned.

Richard J. Hustis, 49, of Newcomb, and his daughters, Muriel, 5, and Lucy, 7, and Jay Dorsett, 58, of Corinth, perished Sunday when a 12-foot, homemade outboard motorboat capsized on Effer Lake in Saratoga County.

Before drowning, Hustis saved his two sons and two other children.

Saturday night on the Oswegatchie River in St. Lawrence County, Leo R. McBroom, 30, of Star Lake, his son, David, 9, and Roy Russell, 12, of Carthage, were drowned when an outboard motorboat capsized.

An outboard motorboat capsized on Lake George Saturday and carried to their deaths Herbert Backus, 51, of Putnam, and Robert Smith, 20, of Rome.

In Alexandria Bay, William J. Henderson, 32, of Syracuse, was killed when his motorboat hit the shore.

IBM Manager Is To Be Speaker For Road Opening

Richard J. Whalen, general manager of IBM Corporation, Kingston, will be one of the principal speakers at ceremonies which will highlight the official opening of the access road between Route 9-W and Route 32 at the west approach to the Kingston-Rhinecliff bridge, Thursday, July 9 at 3:30 p. m.

This announcement was made today by the New York State Bridge Authority officials, who said Governor Nelson Rockefeller will be unable to attend because he is on vacation. A Bridge Authority spokesman said Chairman John S. Stillman will also be a speaker at the ceremonies to which the public is invited.

Ernest R. Heppner, vice chairman of the Bridge Authority, stated that all members of the authority will be present, along with other state and area officials. The ceremonies will be fairly brief, it was said.

The one mile stretch of road completes the approaches to the Kingston-Rhinecliff bridge. The road was constructed at a cost of approximately one and three-tenths million dollars. The road will provide a direct access from the IBM parking lot to the bridge approach and will reduce by approximately 15 minutes the travel time for workers leaving the Kingston plant to cross to the northern Dutchess and southern Columbia county line.

The Kingston-Rhinecliff bridge opened in February, 1957, and it is the fourth bridge crossing the Hudson River to come under the jurisdiction of the Bridge Authority, which also operates the Beacon-Newburgh ferry.

Keating Would Deduct Work Travel From Tax

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Kenneth B. Keating (R-NY) says bus fares and other costs of getting to work should be a tax deduction.

"I've long advocated that a man's expense to and from work be made deductible," he said Sunday in a television interview filmed for New York State broadcast.

Keating said to make up the lost revenue business expense accounts should be surveyed more stringently.

He said he had tried to "put a lid on expense accounts" in a recent tax bill but it was defeated.

McGill Site Bought by Rapp Firm Will Use Property As It's Main Office

Mrs. Catherine Rapp, of 63 Stephen Street, wife of John M. Rapp, president of the John M. Rapp Van Lines Inc., has purchased the McGill coal company property near the underpass on central Broadway from Mrs. Alice B. Flynn, of 112 West Chester Street.

Mrs. Flynn had acquired the property from Mrs. Mary McGill.

To Be In by Tuesday

Mr. Rapp said his firm is in the process of moving from the present location at 77 Greenkill Avenue to the central Broadway property and moving operations are expected to be completed by Tuesday night.

Mr. Rapp's father, John B. Rapp, engineered and constructed the concrete silos on the coal yard property in 1930 when he joined the McGill Coal Company. Mr. Rapp, president of the van lines incorporated which bears his name, also joined the McGill firm and was associated with it for about 15 years.

Warehouse at Whiteport

Rapp also made known that his firm has leased a converted church at Whiteport for warehouse purposes.

The main three-story frame building on the central Broadway property is more than 100 years old and it was originally owned by the Armour Packing Company. Large refrigerators in the plant will be removed according to Rapp. The main building consists of 10,000 square feet of floor space and the property includes a large parking lot for trucks.

It was recalled that the main building was used at one time for the storage of grain, butter and eggs.

Remained Here

After completing the silos, John B. Rapp settled in Kingston and made his home here for many years.

The central Broadway property acquired last week by Mrs. Rapp also consists of the office building, a warehouse, huge truck scales and yard space.

Central Landmark

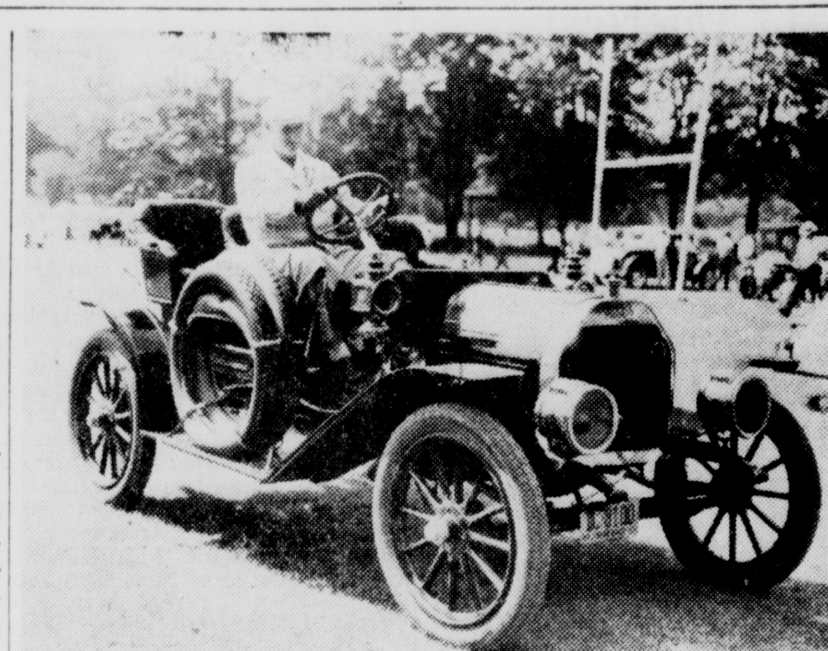

The property has been a landmark in the Central Broadway section of Kingston many years.

The consideration was not disclosed in the sale.

The law firm of Rusk and Rusk appeared for the seller in the transaction, and the law firm of Schick and Klein represented the buyer.

Thousands Push Way To Stand Royal Visit Will Last for 13 Hours

CHICAGO (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II stepped ashore in Chicago today amid the thunder of Army artillery, roaring ships' whistles, and the cheers of thousands of spectators massed around Buckingham Fountain Landing.

A cordon of police struggled to hold back other thousands trying to approach the reviewing stand on the dock.

The royal yacht Britannia's barge brought Elizabeth and Prince Philip ashore promptly at 10 a. m. The yacht was moored outside the breakwater.

Jets, Vessels Take Part

A 21-gun salute began when the launch started toward shore. In close formation, a flight of jet fighter planes roared low over the scene. Hundreds of small pleasure craft followed the barge.

So began the Queen's 13-hour day in Chicago.

The Queen was wearing a short-sleeved summer dress, elbow-length white gloves, a flowered hat and a string of pearls.

She was smiling and looked rested after spending all day Sunday on the voyage from Pary Sound, Canada, to Chicago.

U.S. Chief of Protocol Wiley Buchanan greeted the Queen and Philip officially. The royal couple then passed down a long line of officials. An honor guard of soldiers, sailors and marines stood stiffly at attention.

Farm Worker Is Crushed to Death Beneath Tractor

Fred Wynkoop, 52, of Accord was fatally injured Friday in a farm tractor accident on the Louis Cohen farm, which is rented by John L. Schoonmaker Sons of Accord. The farm tractor, operated by Francis Countryman, 32, of Accord, was pulling a hay crusher. The machine had been stopped to clean the cutting blade, an operation which required backing up the rig. Wynkoop apparently stepped or fell off the crossbar and the machine ran over his chest. The operator of the tractor was looking on the opposite side of the machine and did not see the accident.

Wynkoop died shortly after the accident and the remains were brought to the Kingston Hospital morgue where an autopsy was performed. State Trooper Michael Mahoney of the Ellenville state police station and coroner Arthur C. Chipp conducted an investigation.

Surviving is a sister, Mrs. Hector Osterhout of Kerhonkson and several nieces and nephews. Funeral services were held from the H. B. Humiston Funeral Home, Kerhonkson, this morning at 10 o'clock.

Formosa Air Battles Could Upset Far East

TOKYO (AP) — The battle between Chinese Communist and Nationalist planes that increased tensions in the Formosa Strait this weekend could be the start of a new Far East crisis.

The Nationalists have been predicting such a flareup for months and recently warned that the Chinese Reds had decided at a military conference to stir things up in this critical part of the world.

It is almost a year since Red shelling of the Nationalist-held offshore islands started the Quemoy troubles.

The aerial battle Saturday was the biggest in the Formosa area in nine months.

Air Force headquarters on Formosa gave this account:

Four Nationalist pilots flying U.S.-made Sabre Jets were on a routine patrol south of the Nationalist-held Matsu islands when they were jumped by 12 Soviet-made MIG fighters. Within 13 minutes four MIGs were shot down.

A fifth MIG was downed by planes and anti-aircraft fire on the Pailchuan — White Dog — Islands, 11 miles south of the Matus.

All the Sabre Jets returned safely to their northern Formosa base. If the Nationalist alarms are correct, why does the Peiping regime want a crisis?

It could be part of the Reds' continuing campaign to test Western defenses and determination in the Far East.

It could also be their way of reminding the United States, concerned with Europe and Berlin, that Peiping is also to be reckoned with.

The Reds also could use a new crisis for domestic purposes—to take the peoples' minds off current problems at home.

The Reds have admitted food shortages; have acknowledged that the communes aren't living up to advance hopes; that the industrialization campaign has dislocated agriculture.

Early Marriage Very Happy One For Two MacRaes
By BOB THOMAS
AP MOVIE-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Teen-agers in love get all kinds of arguments on why they shouldn't get married. Here are Gordon and Sheila MacRae with a different slant: why not?

The talented pair married in 1941 when she was 17 and he was barely 20. Eighteen years and four children later, they are enjoying their married life more than ever.

Not only do they live together; they work together. For three years they have been appearing as a team in supper clubs and on TV. This summer they'll co-star in "The Belles Are Ringing" at the big St. Louis outdoor theater.

They attribute a great deal of their success at marriage to having started early. They met in a little theater on Long Island. A romance ensued, and she joined him for a visit in Ohio while he was touring with Horace Heidt.

"It was Horace who suggested we get married," Gordon recalled. "I don't know why, except maybe he thought he'd be able to hold onto a singer. He saw the war coming on and may have figured I wouldn't be drafted if I had dependents."

So they were wed, despite MacRae's shaky prospects: he was earning $50 a week as a part of a quartet. So they lived happily ever after?

"No," corrected Sheila. "I was packed five times and ready to go home to mother."

"And each time I gave in and said I was wrong, whether I was or not," he added.

Their marriage managed to survive the barnstorming tours and his three years in the Air Force. After the war, she wrote and appeared on a radio show which started him off to stardom. When Hollywood beckoned, she retired to care for their family.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JULY 6, 1959

HIGHWAY TROUBLE AHEAD

The federal interstate highway program is not exactly bowling along, and the Washington lawmakers can't seem to get worked up about it.

When the program was established in 1956, one of the main ideas was that it should stand on its own two feet financially.

A highway trust fund was created, and into this pour various types of highway user taxes. The legislators even wrote a provision into the law forbidding the use of general government revenues for this purpose.

At the depth of the recession, however, Congress in its anxiety to promote recovery let the program briefly tap general funds to speed construction.

That left the program with the necessity of one day paying back the money to the general treasury. On top of that advancing prices had materially enlarged the program's total long-range cost.

Faced with this pinch, President Eisenhower recommended an increase in the federal gasoline tax to keep interstate road building at full tilt. But the move brought quick protest from many sources.

Congress thus far has been sternly opposed to boosting the gas tax. This means that unless it allows the program to dip liberally into general funds, the highly touted interstate system is bound to suffer serious delays.

Even at the fastest pace, the program is in danger of being outdistanced by America's vaulting traffic volume. It is now scheduled for completion by 1972. It could conceivably meet that deadline only to have the planners find United States highways almost as inadequate as they are today.

This prospect is real. Any inaction or shunting of responsibility which leads to major delay is like to compound the problem many times.

The interstate system is a minimum program. Lawmakers who take lightly the business of financing it might find themselves serving minimum terms in Congress.

Many a backyard cook uses fancy equipment to get that good charred flavor. Shucks, we used to get that without half trying in our Boy Scout days.

COLORFUL CHAMPION

There is always something special about heavyweight championship fights. Though the combatants are no more skilled than the best men in lighter divisions, the big bruisers are the ones that attract the most attention.

This is true in general, but far more so when the champion has about him an air of the exceptional—when, in short, he is the kind of fellow who makes good copy for one reason or another. Ingemar Johansson, who won the title by repeatedly battering Floyd Patterson to the canvas, has that air of unusual about him. He may go down in boxing history as one of the most interesting champions.

The big Swede from Groteberg is not interesting in the way Joe Louis and Jack Dempsey were. He is a champion more along the lines of Gene Tunney—the sort of man who thinks out his strategy in more or less cold blood, analyzing himself and his opponents and then behaving accordingly.

Many sports writers were not greatly impressed with Johansson before the Patterson fight. He kept his right carefully sheathed during his training bouts—because, said he, he knew it was there and would use it only in the big fight. This, along with some of Johansson's other comments on his fighting equipment, struck more than one expert as a bit of malarkey.

But after the fight it appeared that Johansson had said no more than the truth. His self-confidence had not been bluff; he did unleash the right when the time came, and it was deadly. So now it looks as

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
TITLE I — SCANDAL!

There is quite a lot to do about Title I in New York City. This is a provision in the Federal Housing Law which was designed to encourage building in a period of deep depression. Ordinarily after a term of non-building due to a depression or war or some such condition, a boom in building and in real estate occurs.

In our large cities such a boom was delayed, principally because the Federal Government intervened with a building program of its own. This program involved a tax abatement and, in some circumstances, guaranteed credit with which private enterprise could not compete.

Title I, however, was designed not to keep private enterprise out of the building business but to snare it into it. The Taft-Wagner-Ellender Law was designed to bring private capital into the Slum Clearance business. The inducements were a write-down of land costs, the Federal Government and the municipalities joining in the cost. The power of eminent domain was extended so that large plots could be assembled. States granted tax abatements.

A slum is a blighted area of a city, deserted by careful dwellers and currently occupied by the lowest income groups or by those without income who live on charity, even if it is called relief. As most of the houses were originally erected for higher income groups and in many instances for one family, their conversion into multiple dwellings involves alterations which reduce the property to small unit flats. Such buildings may only be owned profitably if they are not maintained decently. Some landlords find even that unprofitable and board the places up, whereupon they become pestholes, overrun by rats and a menace to an entire neighborhood.

In New York City, Robert Moses, as chairman of the Slum Clearance Committee, had designed a formula for using public and private money, tax abatement, the right of eminent domain and a scheme for park-like development to produce a series of housing arrangements for low, middle and higher income groups, which have had the effect of replacing blighted areas with modern buildings. He has combined such housing with necessary public buildings such as the Coliseum and the Lincoln Square project. He has combined utility with beauty.

In some areas such projects can be developed for full tax paying and full rental buildings. This, of course, offends the do-gooders who thereupon decide for themselves that there must be tremendous windfalls, graft, etc., in this enterprise. Nobody dares to accuse Robert Moses of corruption. He has done too much for New York City and the country even for a tyro to denounce him. At 70, he does more work for the public weal than most men do for any reason. But there is ample opportunity to assault his associates most of whom are businessmen and bankers who have served voluntarily for the improvement of their city.

One such man is Thomas J. Shanahan, president of the Federal Bank and Trust Company, who serves on the Slum Clearance Committee and is a public spirited citizen. He, of course, receives no compensation for his public services, but what is demanded of him now is that his bank reject business which may be involved in Title I operations. If such a principle could be established, it would mean that nobody but a failure, a hobo or a professional office holder, of whatever accomplishments, could serve.

David Rockefeller, in finance, is chairman of the Downtown-Lower Manhattan Improvement Committee. David Rockefeller is an able citizen, vice chairman of the Chase Manhattan Bank, one of the largest in the world. It is likely that some of the business involving the improvements of Lower New York would go to his bank, as any other business would. Does that make David Rockefeller a crook?

The absurdity of the conflict of interest argument is that when a city wishes to improve itself and wants to utilize the best brains available for advice, guidance or even management, this doctrine forbids it to invite the participation of its best minds, who naturally will have something else to do.

According to this doctrine, the city may only utilize the knowledge, wisdom and executive ability of those who have failed in life, have nothing to do, have no financial interests or holdings and therefore are available for whatever is open. Does that make sense?

Decline of TB Is Shining

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service

Several of the brothers and sisters of my own grandparents died of tuberculosis, or what was then called consumption. No doubt a similar statement could be made by virtually every living person over the age of 40.

Since the turn of the century, however, the death rate from tuberculosis has dropped lower and lower.

There are many reasons. But before listing a few I should like to say something in reply to Mrs. F., who asks: "What are the symptoms of tuberculosis?"

Tuberculosis is a germ disease. The symptoms depend on what particular tissues of the body are invaded by the germs. The most common location is in the lungs.

Most of us have had some tubercle bacilli, or germs, in our lung tissues but in most instances we have been able to wall them off and make them inactive. Thus we do not show any of the active symptoms of the disease.

When there are symptoms, the most frequent are cough with expectoration, fever, loss of weight and night sweats. However, the diagnosis is made primarily by means of an X-ray film of the lungs and by finding the germs of tuberculosis in the sputum.

Naturally, the symptoms of tuberculosis elsewhere, such as invasion of the bone, produce different symptoms. But in almost all instances either the X-ray or the identification of the germ by suitable laboratory methods are more accurate than symptoms alone.

The germs are spread from a person or animal who harbors them to a well person. Hence the improvement of sanitation and such measures as the prohibition of public spitting have undoubtedly served to lessen the dangers of catching the disease.

The general improvement in diet and the lessening of extreme poverty and overcrowding are other factors which are partly responsible for the improvement.

Furthermore, many patients with tuberculosis are spotted relatively early, treated and thus kept from infecting others.

There have been great improvements in treatment of tuberculosis. The value of bed rest has long been recognized and is still prescribed for those with active tuberculosis. Such measures as collapsing a diseased lung by injecting air is an added method of promoting "rest" of the diseased tissue.

In recent years, chemical treatments have brought new weapons to the hands of the physician treating tuberculosis. What to give, how often to give it, and to whom to give it are highly technical, but favorable results in many cases are beyond question.

Likewise, several new surgical procedures have proved useful for many victims of tuberculosis.

WASHINGTON — (NEA)—Party sensation of the summer is Mrs. Frank Kluckhohn, wife of a Washington public relations man. She recently got an extra-short haircut and has started wearing three different colored wigs—red, brunette and blond.

Here's how Mrs. Kluckhohn explains her decision to adopt the offbeat hair style:

"I took my 12-year-old son to the barbershop the other day, and he told the barber to give him a crew-cut. When I saw it I suddenly had the urge to get one too. So I did, right there in the barbershop. When my son saw how I looked he started crying. 'You're no longer a mother. You're a boy.' I knew then I'd have to repair the damage. So I bought the wigs."

GEN. MAXWELL TAYLOR, retiring Army Chief of Staff, tells of seeing an officer's efficiency rating report which concluded with the assessment:

"This officer is often confused when given conflicting orders." General Taylor wrote on the report: "Not suited for duty in Washington."

MOST POWERFUL drink guzzled here this year was the punch served at a recent dinner for Peter Heering, the Danish liquor manufacturer. He is best known for his sweet, red concoction called Cherry Heering.

The punch looked, smelled and tasted like Cherry Heering. What didn't add up was that it had the kick of a bolshemacker.

It wasn't until one determined guest managed to keep the bartender in focus while he refilled the punch bowl that the problem was solved. The punch was half vodka and half cherry liqueur, poured over a cake of ice to give it a chill.

REDDEST FACE in town belongs to an impatient Senate office building secretary who hurried into a self-service elevator recently and snapped: "Take me to the ground floor."

To her horror the man whom she thought was the operator turned out to be Sen. Ernest Gruening (D-Alaska). But she felt even worse when Gruening replied, "My dear girl, I'm doing the best that I can."

TURKISH PRESS Attache Altemur Kilic surprised friends recently by revealing himself to be a historian. His first book, titled "Turkey and the World" has just been published and is reported to be one of the most complete histories of his native land ever written. The research and writing took him five years to complete.

But what amazes his pals even more is that he's also a budding novelist. Altemur has just started a yarn about the Turkish Army in Korea.

Only person who's not excited about his talent is his wife. Reason is that Altemur was once night editor for an Istanbul newspaper and doesn't like to start writing until midnight.

Mrs. Kilic complains that the clacking of his typewriter keeps her awake.

"Right now I'm not sure who's suffering the most," Altemur cracks, "the hero of my novel or my wife."

AT A GOING AWAY party in his honor, Greek Press Attache John A. Tzannis modestly protested when an Australian Press Officer R. C. Maley presented him with a medal. "But you deserve it," Maley said.

It wasn't until then that Tzannis looked at the medal closely. On it was the picture of a naked little man and the inscription, "I am a magnificent human being."

EVEN THE longest-winded Washington masters of ceremony must take a second breath whenever they introduce Treasury Department official Robert Jolin

"And now I'm proud to present Chief of the Basic Permit and Trade Practice Branch of the Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Division of the United States Treasury Department, Mr. Robert O. Jolin and Mrs. Jolin."

What Mikoyan May Have Told Kozlov About the U. S.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — There must have been in Moscow an advance "briefing" of First Deputy Premier Frol R. Kozlov by the other First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan. One doubtless told the other what to expect in America. It probably ran somewhat as follows: "Now, comrade Kozlov, don't underestimate the power of the press in America. You can get good headlines and lots of pictures in the paper by following a few simple rules. For instance, smile always, shake hands with people everywhere, visit the big supermarkets and the shops, talk about 'peaceful co-existence' and how you hate war."

"Tell those Americans that our government has done everything it could to preserve peace but somehow the American government doesn't accept what we demand, and that this is the whole trouble."

"Now, as for the business men, they only want to make money. Tell them how much money they can make if they open up trade with us. Not all business men feel that way. Some of them are reactionary—they believe in supporting their government's policies, and they call it 'patriotism.' But there are always others who like to get their names in the paper and who will go out of their way to make a fuss over you."

As for the President and the Secretary of State, be firm with them. If you can get the people with you, it doesn't matter about the government's policies. Be sure you stress peace because the people want to be left alone—they don't like war. Tell them about our Sputniks and missiles, of course, so that they'll know we're ahead and they'll stop trying to catch up. Don't show any signs of weakening or giving in. With those Americans, it is necessary to talk tough—and then they'll melt away."

How successful was this approach? First Deputy Kozlov has followed the line very closely. How many millions of Americans are being taken in by it? Some local officials—as, for instance the Mayor of Detroit—aren't being fooled. He plainly said he saw no reason to give any welcome to an unofficial visitor who represents what Mr. Kozlov does.

But the American press has done a far better job this time in exposing the hypocrisies evident in the Kozlov utterances than when similar falsehoods were disseminated by Mr. Mikoyan on his recent visit to this country.

"The New York Times," for instance, in an editorial Sunday said that Mr. Kozlov in his speech before the Washington correspondents last week seemed to be speaking for peace and good will, but "much of what he said was either misleading or threatening." "The Times" specifies six points as follows:

"1. He said: 'The will of the Soviet people is a sacred law for the government of the U. S. S. R.' The Russian government is an autocracy. It doesn't know what the will of the Soviet people is.

"On Russian Justice
"2. He said: 'We are building a new society and we believe it will be the most just social order on earth.' There is no standard of justice, in Russia except what half a dozen or so people may say it is.

"3. He said: 'We do not intend to foist this order by force on anybody.' It has been foisted by force upon the Baltic states, Hungary, a good part of eastern Germany and an unknown number of the Russian people.

"4. He spoke of reductions in the Russian army and armaments. He presented no proof that a single man had been demobilized.

"5. He spoke of offers made by Moscow to prohibit the use of nuclear weapons. He did not mention that Russia has refused to make a single binding guarantee that this would be done.

"6. He discussed the surrender of West Berlin to the Moscow-dominated East German republic as a step in the direction of peace, rejecting with indignation the charge that the Russian policy for West Germany was an aggressive intention." He knew better and his hearers knew better. When the question was put to him directly whether "if the Russians cannot get agreement to make Berlin a free city will they use force to obtain that objective?" he answered: "If a war is unleashed over this question and force is resorted to, then force will be met by force. This is the basic point at which the apostle of freedom and peace arrives."

Korean War Violations
The same autocratic government that Mr. Kozlov represents, it might be added, was less than six years ago supplying guns, naval vessels, planes and sending in supervising officers and pilots in Korea to kill 33,000 and wound 103,000 Americans, as well as inflicting hundreds of thousands of casualties on the other troops of the United Nations forces who sought to repel aggression. Today the so-called "armistice" agreement in Korea is still being openly violated by the Red Chinese with the connivance of the Moscow government. This, too, is an example of how the Soviets profess not to be foisting force on anybody.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Not all stories about newspapermen of the long ago are hilarious and the one which, by your permission, I will tell today will qualify as drama if not tragedy.

In France during World War I, a rather dull but apparently decent enough fellow turned up as a second-string correspondent with the AEF for one of the New York papers. I rode with him out of Neufchateau, the press headquarters, a few times, but recall little except that we were acquainted.

About the time of Roosevelt's second term, I got a note from this old colleague. He was ill and absolutely down and out and his home, at the end of his career, was a room in the Mills Hotel. I telephoned Lee Wood, the executive editor of the World-Telegram, and hoped that Lee could put him to work. A few days later, I got a note of appreciation, but it was not warm and I thought he was a little short in gratitude. A year or more later, I asked Wood for news. Lee Barry remembered the man and the incident, but he said he thought the best he had been able to do for him just then, with the depression on and the Newspaper Guild kicking up a constant row, was to put him on the bench with the office boys. He drifted off into space. He just went. That was all and that was the last I ever heard of him.

But recently I got out a classic of newspaper fiction by Jesse Lynch Williams called "The Stolen Story" and it was so improbable and poorly written that I went to a folder of letters from and about old friends of the Park Row days and, by luck, found one from Donald Henderson Clarke, a fine reporter and a gallant gentleman. Clarke had been taken drunk on an assignment by the New York World to find Nicky Arnstein, an international con-man and the husband of Fanny Brice, and come in with him and William J. Fallon, the great mouthpiece, as Gene Fowler called him in a historical biography of a spectacular time in New York, when Arnstein surrendered to the district attorney of New York County in May, 1920. Fallon quickly arranged bond for Arnstein and they all walked out to discover that in that brief time, with the cops off watch for their big parade, someone had stolen Arnstein's car.

Clarke easily found Arnstein in his hideout in a flat on Broadway below 42nd Street and was made welcome to the circle which included some decorative and not at all prim ladies more or less of the theatre.

"Herbert Swope sent me to hole up with Arnstein and Fallon," Don wrote me from Orleans, Cape Cod, on Dec. 1, 1954. "I had a feeling that the story might break any minute, but I had had oceans of scotch and wanted a pal to keep watch for me while I caught a little sleep." So I toddled down to the Old Opera Cafe and phoned the World.

"I knew that when Arnstein did come I would have a hard day's work on the hoof and many columns to write. An office boy answered and then our mutual friend was on the phone. At some discomfort to myself I had got his first job with The World. He did not know where Fallon and Arnstein were until I told him. He came up, I went to sleep and the next thing I knew a woman who was married to one of the top Chicago crooks awakened me, minutes too late. She suspected something."

Fallon, Arnstein, Fanny and the World reporter headed into Fifth Avenue where the annual police parade was forming and, actually, led the parade, by about a half block, past the reviewing stand at Union Square where Mayor Hyman and Commissioner Enright took the salute. Arnstein tried to stand up and doff his cap to Enright, but Fallon and Fanny pulled him down. They then drove down to the Criminal Courts, but the building was almost deserted because of the parade and Fallon said they had to drive around it three times beating on doors before they could attract attention and break in to surrender.

"Jack Gavin, then city editor, suspended me," Clarke wrote. "But I had already quit for being such an ass. The World was wonderful to me, as it always was. Told me to charge hundreds of dollars which I had spent on this fiasco to 'paid for information.' The auditor handed me pay envelopes for several weeks. Of course I was all wet not to keep myself in shape."

"But I told our friend I hoped he would live a long time because he must be the most unhappy man imaginable, having to live with himself. So I was sorry when I heard he had died."

Don Clarke died about two years ago, truly beloved by many men and women who had worked assignments with him.

Preliminary Plans For Chest X-Ray Survey Announced

Preliminary plans for the 1959 chest X-ray survey are now being made by representatives of the Ulster County TB and Health Association, the Ulster County Health Department, and leaders in the various communities where the state mobile unit will be set up between Sept. 28 and Oct. 3.

Members of the Ulster County Medical Society in the area of study will be notified of the program, dates and location as soon as the full plans are known.

Miss Hazel M. Steed, executive director of the Ulster County TB and Health Association, who will serve as coordinator of the project, said this week the chest X-ray unit will be placed at convenient locations in the Townships of Wawarsing, Rochester, Marbletown and Olive. Citizen committees will be organized in each community to assist in plans for location, information, canvassing, and to assist with clerical work and registering at the X-ray location.

Every adult in the district will be invited and urged to take advantage of the privilege of having a free chest X-ray right in their own neighborhood. The X-ray takes but a few minutes, is painless, and is the most effective method of finding early tuberculosis when it can be cured. Chest X-rays are also important in the search for early tumors and cancer of the lung, while in some instances certain heart conditions are discovered.

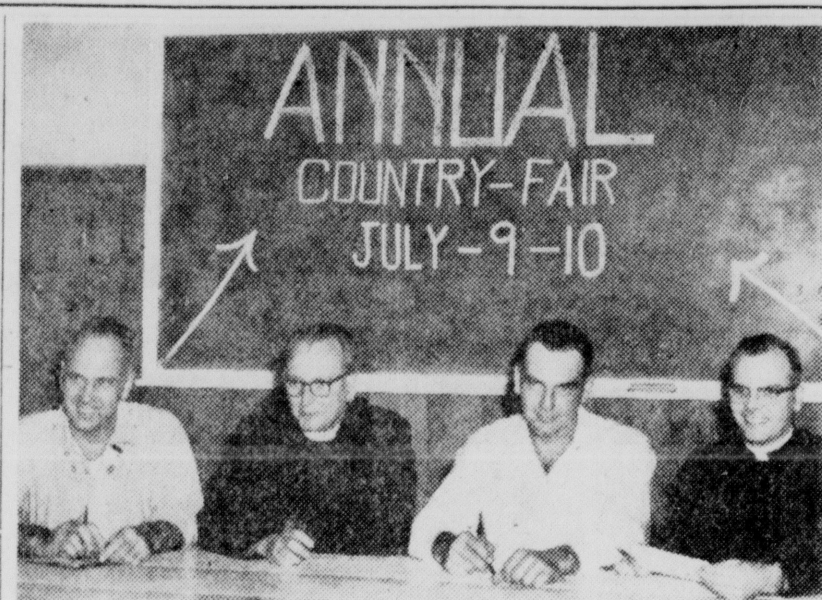

The following representatives will serve as general chairmen of the citizen committees in their respective communities: Wawarsing, Supervisor Edwin C. Chase of Napanoch; Ellenville, Mayor Eugene Glusker; Marbletown, Supervisor Roy Webber of Stone Ridge; Rochester, Supervisor A. Richard Terwilliger of Kerhonkson; Olive, Supervisor Lester S. Davis of West Shokan.

Miss Steed said the names of the many civic leaders who will serve on the necessary committees will be announced as soon as they are mobilized.

Each year a different area of Ulster County is surveyed. Last year the program was successfully carried on in Kingston where 9,954 adults had their chest X-rayed.

In this project the TB and Health Association serves the community by carrying on the organization of citizen groups, financing the costs of printing posters, fliers and items of information, and paying other supplementary costs.

Christmas Seals and Heart funds contributed by Ulster County citizens make possible the work of the TB Association and Heart Chapter of Ulster County.

PLANNING COUNTRY FAIR—Arrangements for the annual country fair at Holy Cross Episcopal Church, 28 Pine Grove Avenue, July 9 and 10, were discussed by the committee at a session this week at the church. Attending were (l-r) Harry R. Hines, publicity; the Rev. Kenneth B. Hinds, priest-in-charge at Holy Cross Church; Henry Paul Jr., fair chairman and the Rev. George Jarvis, IV, assistant-in-charge at the church. Paul also is chairman of the strawberry dessert and card party scheduled Thursday at 7:30 p. m. William Blume, chairman of the minstrel show and dance 8 p. m. Friday of that week, was not present. There will be booths featuring food, fancy articles and amusements. The public is invited. Mother's Crazy Quilt

By FRANK TRIPP

There is wisdom in the proverb that man makes himself an ass if he goes about expounding his dreams. So here goes another whirl at making one of myself—for I had a dream, which I here expound.

At sunrise the buzz of out-boards awakened me in the midst of a priceless fantasy. I was communing with scores of brilliant little squares of cloth, a joyous nostalgic interview.

I dreamt that I slept beneath a rhapsody of color: a crazy quilt which in my mother made—she and her friends.

Though quite awake, the illusion was so real that I searched my bed covering for the one bright blue square which I knew the best. It was from a little blouse I wore as a child.

It was some seconds before I realized that I'm a man now, and it has been 70 years since I slept under the wonderful quilt with which I fancied I had spent a night I'll long remember.

WHY, YOU sentimental old fool I thought, as retrospection brought me to my creaking age again. Unwilling to dismiss my reverie, I closed my eyes, revived my dream and saw mother's patchwork quilt as plainly as I did when just a boy—the polka-dots, the checks and stripes and plaids of the happy 1880's.

Yes, there was the little blue square, sewed next to one like mother's pretty dress, against which my head had leaned as I learned to say my prayers. There was the denim square from my pop's shirt, the kind he worked in on his engine, one of Aunt Lib Turk's apron, one of Ellie Burgess' sun bonnet, a number that I knew.

I could find a lot of familiar squares, so often had my mother named them all and told me whence they came; as if by family legend to hand down a directory of friends and kin.

ARE YOU old enough to remember those patchwork quilts got put together at old time quilting parties? Aunt Dinah had one, remember, from which a lovesick swain was "seeing Nellie Home."

Almost every garment women and their children wore was made at home from piece goods chosen with jealous care. For meetin' gowns and something spruce, dressmakers came for a dollar a day and keep. From snatches left, women traded with each other, mostly calicos and gingham, to give variety to the radiant crazy quilt. When, after many lamplight hours, the little pieces were hand-sewed into a bed sized spread, the date was set for the quilting bee. Friends came in to spend the day.

SOMETIMES they made a "comfortable" like this: First underlining was stretched upon a quilting frame. Next the cotton bats were spread, thick for bitter cold, or thin for milder nights. Then the gorgeous patchwork topside was unfurled.

The workers paused to name every square and tell who wore the dress from which it came; with praise for some—or taste words for others' dreadful or tasteless. The more agile helpers crouched beneath the spreading frame to receive with nimble fingers and return the threads to which the standing ladies tied fuzzy woolen knots on top.

It was quite some task to make a quilt but when 'twas done it poked much more than warmth. It was an autograph of friends by scores, a diary of by-gone days, a catalog of olden styles; an heirloom of skill and thrift, a wondrous work of love and tender sentiment—yesteryear's valentine.

But alas, Aunt Dinah's quilting party is no more. Today's swain sees Nellie home from a night club—more likely takes her to another.

Shokan

SHOKAN—Mr. and Mrs. S. Raimor, Hartford, Conn., were numbered among out-of-state residents calling in the hub of the reservoir country Wednesday. They were on their way home after attending a convention of Philco dealers and their wives from four eastern states, Tuesday and Wednesday, at Grand Hotel, Highmount.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Rosson, New York, have opened their Route 28 bungalow for the season. The couple bought and enlarged the building owned by Joseph DeWitt, Kingston, near the World War II veteran's boyhood home.

Mary Ann Burns has office employment at Haver's Garage. Kurt Ellie while on an extended vacation from his seafaring duties has been erecting a dwelling on the site of the old Philip Lasher barn on his property along the Brown Station hill road. He owns about 50 acres in the Town of Olive.

Aaron Franson, an Associated Press man from New York, was here Saturday.

Gus Rubenstein, retired member of the reservoir department force, and wife were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bennett in Old Hurley.

Here Wednesday was Richard W. Sherman of Cross River, Westchester County, who was interested in securing some old timbers for use in erecting a 220-year old house in Massachusetts which he plans to raze and transport to his place in the Mt. Kisco area.

Tuesday, from Dover Plains, Dutchess County, came George Taylor Jr., and son George. They were on their way to Wittenberg to see George Taylor Sr., who has returned from his place in Winter Haven, Fla. The Taylor family was saddened by the recent death of Mrs. Taylor Sr., in Florida.

BOOK REVIEW

To further increase interest in the Kingston Library the following review by Mrs. G. Cramer Dodge is published.

THE IMPROPER BOHEMIANS

By Allen Churchill

338pp

In this stimulating and often improper story of life in Greenwich Village in the golden years between 1912 and 1930, the author has given an authentic and unforgettable picture of a small section of a large city whose influence spread far beyond the city limits.

Young intellectuals from over the country, hearing of the Bohemianism and low rents in the Village, flocked there in droves to enjoy the delights of the free and easy morals and to pursue their artistic endeavors among congenial spirits.

At the Liberal Club, headed by feminist Henrietta Rodman; at Mabel Dodge's extravagant "Evenings" at 23 Fifth Avenue; at Pagan Routs at Webster Hall; at bars all the way from the elegant Brevoort to the bawdy Hell Hole on Sixth Avenue, these gay young folks went their roistering way. Most of them, particularly those of the period between 1912 and 1920, were serious artists who had something to contribute to the arts and many of them, in spite of the examples of promiscuity around them, made happy, lasting marriages and became responsible citizens.

Among those who might be called the vanguard of the first Village era were handsome, prematurely white-haired Max Eastman; Carl Van Vechten; Jo Davidson; Harry Kemp; Edgar Allan Poe; Alan Seeger; Eugene O'Neill; Sinclair Lewis; Art Young; Upton Sinclair; John Reed; Floyd Dell; Bobby Edwards, the Village troubadour, and others.

Later comers were George Cram Cook who, with his wife, Susan Glaspell, organized and managed the immensely popular Provincetown Players and introduced the genius of Eugene O'Neill; Max Bodenheim, the great lover for whom two girls committed suicide and another attempted it; Millionaire Clairmont who stirred things up even more than John Reed and whose hospitality was much more abused than was that of Mabel Dodge. The antics of the hungry and thirsty riff raff, who crashed all available parties and behaved abominably, gave the Village a bad name which it did not deserve.

Loveliest Village resident was the talented, ethereal poet, Edna St. Vincent Millay, Pulitzer prize winner, who froze and starved like a true artist before her genius received recognition. The author devotes a full chapter to the story of her life and it is vastly interesting.

In contrast to the quiet serenity of Miss Millay's character, Mr. Churchill describes the dynamic quality of John Reed and his meteoric career, ending in his tragic death in Moscow.

Village publications with their famous unpaid contributors give a brilliant record of notable events in the Village's golden era. There were "The Masses," edited by Max Eastman and making quite a stir; the "Quill," edited by pint-sized Art Moss and later by Bobby Edwards; the "Little Review" and the "Villager"—which had the longest life.

Many of the waking hours of the Villagers were spent in the restaurants and tea rooms. There were a great many of these. First and by far the most popular was "Polly's," operated by Paula Halliday from Iowa and the fiery anarchist, Hippolyte Havel. There in a friendly atmosphere, hungry villagers could get good, wholesome food at low prices. Later as the Greenwich Village Inn, Polly's was taken over by Barney Gallant. That was where the bullet-headed little Latvian got his start which was to yield large financial returns. His night clubs with their preposterously high prices were very popular in the prohibition era with those willing and able to pay exorbitant prices for liquor and entertainment. Barney was smart.

Other fantastically named restaurants and arty tea rooms reflected Village moods and were more or less successful. The Pepper Pot and Jumble Shop had long runs and the latter is still operating. Don Dickerman's Fridge Den and County Fair were long on decor and drama but short on food. The Mad Hatter was most unique. Moreover the proprietor got herself a fine husband in William Hendrick Van Loon.

Even after its gay rowdiness has become a thing of the past, Greenwich Village, for those who enjoy the stimulation of life in a great city, is a wonderful place to live in. After all the culture of which New York City can rightfully boast had much of its inspiration from that little group of blythe spirits of early village days. Happily the flavor of those days lingers in little byways of the village and a few survivors who remember.

Parole of Bistany In 1956 Legal, Says Board Head

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — The chairman of the New York State Parole Board says he is certain the 1956 parole of Harvey (Mad Dog) Bistany was legal.

Chairman Russell G. Oswald made the statement Sunday when asked to comment on a story in The Worcester (Mass.) Telegram. The newspaper said Bistany was paroled by New York authorities despite eight indictments outstanding against him in Massachusetts and "a New York law barring parole for 20 years to mandatory life."

Bistany, now working as a die maker in a Brooklyn machine shop, is under the eight indictments in Massachusetts in connection with a holdup in Worcester in 1951 and a robbery in North Attleboro in 1952.

Oswald said Massachusetts did not try him on these charges but returned him to New York, where he originally had been sentenced to life imprisonment as a fourth offender but later paroled.

In 1956, he was released on parole again from Clinton State Prison at Dannemora.

Oswald said Bistany had been re-arrested under an amendment to the parole eligibility law.

"Warrants were never filed by Massachusetts," Oswald said. "We are making an effort to find out what Massachusetts intends to do about the indictments."

Bistany, the newspaper said, "allegedly earned his life parole with testimony that put 18 other men in prison."

Democratic Leadership Need Cited by Butler

WASHINGTON (AP) — More progressive Democratic leadership is needed in Congress, Paul M. Butler says, to provide a party record for the 1960 election campaigns.

"We are going to be in a tough situation in 1960" unless the Congress gets busy, the Democratic national chairman said Sunday in a televised interview.

Butler mentioned no names, but obviously referred to Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas and House Speaker Sam Rayburn.

fractured left arm and an injured hip.

The body of Mrs. Krueger was removed to the Ulster County morgue where an autopsy will be performed. The verdict of Coroner Arthur Chipp of Kerhonkson, who was at the scene, is pending.

Troopers Fred Cooper and Frank Madrosz of the Ellenville state police reported that the Collorella vehicle was proceeding west and the Krueger car east at the time of the collision.

Swerves Into Lane

The Krueger car reportedly swerved into the westbound lane, striking the Collorella car in the left front with its front end, state police said.

Mrs. Krueger had been visiting a friend, Hazel Volkin of Monticello, it was reported. The body was removed to the Lasak Funeral Home, Scotia.

Surviving is her mother and one son, Eugene, 14.

Saunders' body was found by Irvin Solomon of Rahway, N. J., who was visiting his mother in Slettsburg during the week-end.

Sees Body in River

Solomon walked along a path from Slettsburg to the Hudson and there, a few feet from shore, saw the body lying face down over a large log. It was reported by the Ulster county sheriff's office and Coroner Francis J. McCord.

Solomon notified the sheriff's office which dispatched Deputy Jack Seaholm. Later Undersheriff Clayton W. Vredenburg, County Investigator Arthur Brown and Assistant District Attorney John G. Tell went to the scene.

Brown told The Freeman there did not appear to be any visible marks on the body which might indicate violence.

McCord said no shoes or socks were found and are believed to have been washed out by the tide. His clothes were partly removed.

Son Identifies Body

A son, Philip Saunders, Jamaica, L. I., identified the body as that of his father last night.

The body was removed to the Ulster county morgue for an autopsy this morning.

Financial and Commercial

By ED MORSE

AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Industrials advanced toward higher record ground early this afternoon while utilities and rails turned mixed.

Motors, Steels and some chemicals were especially strong as the over-all market list moved forward on average despite some profit taking.

The rise to historic highs Thursday, the last preweekend session, and the continuance of encouraging news about the economy contributed to a renewed feeling of confidence on Wall Street.

Aluminums, drugs and tobaccos also were well on the upside. Oils and aircrafts remained backward. Electronics and rubbers were irregular.

General Motors was especially strong, trading on a succession of sizable blocks and rising about 2 points, apparently on favorable reports from various quarters.

U. S. Steel also was active and ahead better than a point.

Other steels and motors followed these leaders.

All the other automotive stocks showed plus signs, most of them fairly small except for American Motors which rose about a point.

Eastman Kodak jumped 3 and Union Carbide and Allied Chemical were up more than a point each.

Union Oil of California, ahead about a point, stood out among oils, most of which edged downward.

Losses of around a point were taken by Boeing, Douglas and United Aircraft.

Schering rose about 2.

Alcoa rose a point while other aluminums gained fractions.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 70 cents to $231.80 with the industrials up $1.70, the rails off 10 cents and the utilities off 10 cents.

CAP to Move Its Headquarters to Air Base in Texas

Capt. Sidney Lane, commander, Kingston Composite Squadron, Civil Air Patrol, said today he has been informed that the national CAP headquarters is due to move from Bolling Air Force Base to Houston, Texas.

It will be located at Ellington Air Force Base, southeast of Houston, after having been at Bolling base for 13½ years. Ellington is a reserve and national guard training base of the 10th Air Force, which, like CAP is part of the Continental Air Command. CAP is the volunteer civilian auxiliary of the U. S. Air Force.

The shift will mean relocation of 85 air force military personnel and some civilian employees. Because 27 civilians assigned to headquarters decided to stay in Washington, D. C., local recruitment will be required in the Houston area.

The annual salary of personnel of Civil Air Patrol Headquarters exceeds $750,000 annually. Over 100 families will be added to the Houston area as a result of the move.

Personnel strength of the headquarters and the field liaison units is approximately 375 officers, airmen and civilians.

Assigned to the CAP-USAF headquarters are small Air Force liaison staffs located at eight CAP regional headquarters and in each state and U. S. territory. These liaison units carry out the work of the headquarters in the field. Their job is to help CAP accomplish its various voluntary missions by facilitating procurement of surplus supplies, communication equipment, light aircraft, training materials, vehicles, etc.

They also look after CAP's air-lift requirements in connection with special Air Force-CAP programs and handle a variety of other matters. None of the liaison personnel will be affected by the move to Ellington Air Force Base.

Parole of Bistany In 1956 Legal, Says Board Head

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — The chairman of the New York State Parole Board says he is certain the 1956 parole of Harvey (Mad Dog) Bistany was legal.

Chairman Russell G. Oswald made the statement Sunday when asked to comment on a story in The Worcester (Mass.) Telegram.

The newspaper said Bistany was paroled by New York authorities despite eight indictments outstanding against him in Massachusetts and "a New York law barring parole for 20 years to mandatory lifers."

Bistany, now working as a die maker in a Brooklyn machine shop, is under the eight indictments in Massachusetts in connection with a holdup in Worcester in 1951 and a robbery in North Attleboro in 1952.

Oswald said Massachusetts did not try him on these charges but returned him to New York, where he originally had been sentenced to life imprisonment as a fourth offender but later paroled.

In 1956, he was released on parole again from Clinton State Prison at Dannemora.

Oswald said Bistany had been re-arrested under an amendment to the parole eligibility law.

"Warrants were never filed by Massachusetts," Oswald said. "We are making an effort to find out what Massachusetts intends to do about the indictments."

Bistany, the newspaper said, "allegedly earned his life parole with testimony that put 18 other men in prison."

The Krueger car reportedly swerved into the westbound lane, striking the Collora car in the left front with its front end, state police said.

Mrs. Krueger had been visiting a friend, Hazel Volkman of Monticello, it was reported. The body was removed to the Lasak Funeral Home, Scotia.

Surviving is her mother and one son, Eugene, 14. Saunders' body was found by Irvin Solomon of Rahway, N. J., who was visiting his mother in Sloatsburg during the weekend.

Sees Body In River

Solomon walked along a path from Sloatsburg to the Hudson and there, a few feet from shore, saw the body lying face down over a large log, it was reported by the Ulster county sheriff's office and Coroner Francis J. McCordle.

Solomon notified the sheriff's office which dispatched Deputy Jack Seaholm. Later Undersheriff Clayton W. Vredenburg, County Investigator Arthur Brown and Assistant District Attorney John G. Telli went to the scene.

Brown told The Freeman there did not appear to be any visible marks on the body which might indicate violence.

McCordle said no shoes or socks were found and are believed to have been washed out by the tide. His clothes were partly removed.

Son Identifies Body

A son, Philip Saunders, Jamaica, L. I., identified the body as that of his father last night.

The body was removed to the Ulster county morgue for an autopsy this morning.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — Industrials advanced toward higher record ground early this afternoon while utilities and rails turned mixed.

Motors, Steels and some chemicals were especially strong as the over-all market list moved forward on average despite some profit taking.

The rise to historic highs Thursday, the last preweekend session, and the continuance of encouraging news about the economy contributed to a renewed feeling of confidence on Wall Street.

Aluminums, drugs and tobaccos also were well on the upside. Oils and aircrafts remained backward. Electronics and rubbers were irregular.

General Motors was especially strong, trading on a succession of sizable blocks and rising about 2 points, apparently on favorable reports from various quarters.

U. S. Steel also was active and ahead better than a point.

Other steels and motors followed these leaders.

All the other automotive stocks showed plus signs, most of them fairly small except for American Motors which rose about a point.

Union Carbide and Allied Chemical were up more than a point each.

Union Oil of California, ahead about a point, stood out among oils, most of which edged downward.

Losses of around a point were taken by Boeing, Douglas and United Aircraft.

Scherer rose about 2.

Alcoa rose a point while other aluminums gained fractions.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 70 cents to $231.80 with the industrials up $1.70, the rails off 10 cents and the utilities off 10 cents.

CAP to Move Its Headquarters to Air Base in Texas

Capt. Sidney Lane, commander, Kingston Composite Squadron, Civil Air Patrol, said today he has been informed that the national CAP headquarters is due to move from Bolling Air Force Base to Houston, Texas.

It will be located at Ellington Air Force Base, southeast of Houston, after having been at Bolling base for 13½ years. Ellington is a reserve and national guard training base of the 10th Air Force, which, like CAP is part of the Continental Air Command. CAP is the volunteer civilian auxiliary of the U. S. Air Force.

The shift will mean relocation of 85 air force military personnel and some civilian employees. Because 27 civilians assigned to headquarters decided to stay in Washington, D. C., local recruitment will be required in the Houston area.

The annual salary of personnel of Civil Air Patrol Headquarters exceeds $750,000 annually. Over 100 families will be added to the Houston area as a result of the move.

Personnel strength of the headquarters and the field liaison units is approximately 375 officers, airmen and civilians.

Assigned to the CAP-USAF headquarters are small Air Force liaison staffs located at eight CAP regional headquarters and in each state and U. S. territory. These liaison units carry out the work of the headquarters in the field. Their job is to help CAP accomplish its various voluntary missions by facilitating procurement of surplus supplies, communication equipment, light aircraft, training materials, vehicles, etc.

They also look after CAP's airlift requirements in connection with special Air Force-CAP programs and handle a variety of other matters. None of the liaison personnel will be affected by the move to Ellington Air Force Base.

Hall Space Sold Out for Dutches Fair in August

All exhibit hall space for the 114th Dutchess County Fair, scheduled in Rhinebeck from Aug. 28 through Sept. 2, has been sold out since May 15. Secretary Richard C. Murray said this is the earliest "sellout" in his 14 years as an executive, and is quite in contrast to last year's edition when the final commercial frontage wasn't put under contract until 11 days before the opening.

Murray said this year's fair will have many of its former popular features as well as several new items and improvements. Heading the list of long standing favorites will be a return of the famous Dutchess eight-horse hitch of Clydesdales, as well as the Victor Adding Machine pony hitch that was such a hit two years ago.

Of interest to cattle exhibitors, the pole barn in the dairy exhibit section will be equipped this year with DeLaval milking lines which will empty into a central refrigerated milk tank. A new wash house for milking equipment is under construction.

The flavor of an old-fashioned agricultural fair will be carried over from produce exhibits to a display of farm machinery which this year will feature a real working demonstration section. There, within a fenced in area, all types of machinery introductions will be put through their paces.

With inside exhibit space already sold and under-tent and outside space now at a premium, Murray said this year's edition of the Dutchess exposition is destined "to be the biggest ever."

The original settlement at St. Paul, Minn., was called Innijiska. It became St. Paul in 1841.

THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME (Registered U. S. Patent Office) By JIMMY HATLO

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—It was a Glorious Fourth for a lot of stockbrokers. Their shares climbed to new high prices before the markets closed for the long holiday.

For a lot of others it wasn't so glorious. Their shares are lower today than on New Year's Day.

For many who bought bonds some time back, today is a sad one. If they want to sell the bonds now—corporate or government—they'll get less than they paid for them. Prices of many bond issues are at record lows.

The secretary of the Treasury didn't celebrate either. His new short-term tax anticipation bills went at an average rate of 4.075 per cent, highest since 1957. And he has been telling Congress that he can't sell long-term bonds at 4 1/2 per cent, the legal ceiling.

But for some one wanting to buy bonds, the picture is quite different. Yields are the highest in years. That is, while their interest rates are fixed at the same percentage as when issued, they can be bought at cut-rate prices, making the return on the investment more attractive than what many blue chip common stocks return in dividends in ratio to today's record high prices.

Even the municipal bonds—which usually carry the lowest interest rates because they're exempt from federal taxes—are yielding more than top grade common stocks, whose dividends are taxable after a low deduction allowance. The Dow Jones industrial bond yield index is the highest in 25 years at 3.78 per cent, while the yield of the 30 industrials on its stock index averages out at 3.08 per cent.

Dealers point out that for persons in the 50 per cent tax bracket a yield of 4 per cent on tax exempt equals 8 per cent yield on taxable stocks.

But the shift in investor interest from stocks to bonds hasn't come yet as some had expected. Stock prices were still being bid up before the holiday, low yield notwithstanding.

Some thought it was a signal for the traditional summer rally in stock prices. Some thought it was continued hedging against the possibility of further inflation. Stocks are considered good hedges while bonds aren't.

Others thought it was the infectious confidence that came with the quick recovery of business from the recession and the signs that a new boom was on the way.

Stock groups leading the march to new high ground were in the electronics, missile and communication fields. These caught public fancy with the launching of Sputnik.

Among the laggards were oil and mining stocks, representing industries plagued with price weaknesses or oversupply.

Those who remember 1929 warn from time to time that prices can't keep going up forever. But obviously many traders don't think the turning point is at hand.

The records tell the story. The Associated Press price index of 60 stocks stands at a new peak of 231.1.

The Dow Jones industrial stock price index has hit a new high of 654.76.

The number of Americans owning some stock is at a record 12 million, twice what it was only a few years back.

Confidence, hedging or speculation? A mixture of all three—adding up to exciting days on the investment scene.

No Change Figured in Relations

World Watches With Interest
Exchange Visits of Bigwigs

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — There is international interest in the exchange of visits by American and Soviet bigwigs: Deputy Premiers Anastas I. Mikoyan and Rol R. Kozlov come here; Vice President Richard M. Nixon visits Moscow this month.

But do they mean anything?

So far as it is visible these visits figure to make no change at all in relations between the two countries.

The gulf between them is so deep any change will be only from what each, after much thought and bargaining, thinks best for itself. Glad-handing won't change anything.

Maybe President Eisenhower and Premier Nikita Khrushchev could work out something at a summit conference. That's questionable. If they do, it won't be out of jolly goodfellowship.

Nixon, Mikoyan and Kozlov certainly don't have authority to agree on anything. The two Soviets held out some bait. Nobody bit. If Nixon goes fishing in Moscow, he'll probably come up with an empty hook, too.

More than a year ago Khrushchev proposed—in a letter to Eisenhower—more trade between the two countries. It's pitifully low now. Mikoyan came here earlier this year and talked trade. Now Kozlov talks trade.

All three got the cold-shoulder. Over the weekend the State Department in a letter to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, gave the Soviets the full icewater treatment.

The department repeated what has been American policy all along: it does not see much reason for stepping up American-Soviet trade; plenty of reasons for not.

This country is quite willing and able to sell the Soviet Union large quantities of finished consumer goods, but the U.S.S.R. wants little of these, more of other things.

This is the unchanged policy: no strategic materials for the Soviet Union, since they would help her warming potential; no materials that would help the Soviet Union economically by letting her in on American technological advances.

This country has reason not to help the U.S.S.R. get any bigger.

economically since Khrushchev solemnly has promised to bury this country under Soviet prosperity.

And while Khrushchev, Mikoyan and Kozlov have been talking friendlier relations and better trade, the Soviet Union has been trying to force the Allies out of Berlin.

Khrushchev and Kozlov even chose the very moment when Kozlov was here, shaking hands and patting babies, to warn the United States not to get rough about Berlin or it would get well roughed up.

While all this was going on, of course, the Soviet Union was building up its missile supplies, the United States was building up its missile bases around the Soviet Union, and on the subject of Berlin, telling Khrushchev to go jump in the Volga.

Happy days? Not yet.

Arctic Operation

Wallace J. Elston, chief engineer, USN, husband of the former Miss Gloria E. Mayes of 48 Howland Avenue, Kingston, is serving aboard the icebreaker USS Atka, participating in the 1959 Summer Arctic Operations.

The Atka left her homeport, Boston, Mass., June 12. Enroute, the icebreaker stopped at Halifax, Nova Scotia, to pick up a radio beacon which her crew will install on Crutcher Island to aid the shipping approach to Sondstrom, Greenland.

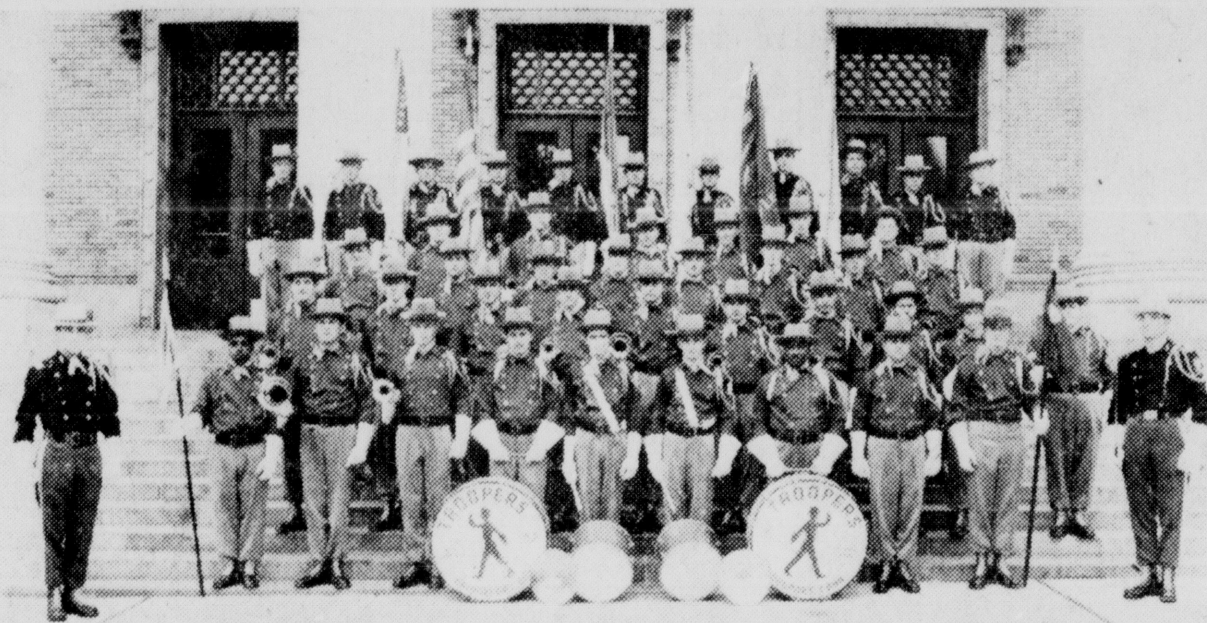

She will be linked with the Navy's Military Sea Transportation Service's Arctic shipping operations on both the East and West coasts of Greenland.

The Atka will also escort ships through the ice fields to the U. S. Air Force base at Thule, Greenland, and will support the landing of the Air Force's Cambridge Research Party by helicopter airlift on the northeastern coast of Greenland. The party will be investigating ice-free sites for possible aircraft landing.

Before returning to Boston about October 1, the Atka will attempt to penetrate and explore the remote ice fields northeast of Greenland's Germania Land.

Soybean Oil

Output of soybean oil in the United States now exceeds that of cottonseed oil, previously the chief vegetable oil produced in this country.

Drum and Bugle Corps of Port Ewen Saturday, July 11, at 8 p. m. in Dietz Stadium. Championship corps of the Yankee Marching-Maneuvering Circuit will compete for cash awards. This year's event is a part of the Hudson-Champlain celebration. Reserved seats are now on sale.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

Here are some items from The Kingston Argus of Wednesday, Jan. 10, 1894. This from Samsonville: "The Tax Collector is around gathering in the money. Taxes are less this year than last . . . Many thought an earthquake had visited us on Saturday morning, but it turned out to be the explosion of the Rifton powder mill."

Item from Heath reads "The shock caused by the explosion at Rifton, was felt here. Some were frightened thinking it was an earthquake." Another item from Heath: "Rev. T. E. Davis, of Bound Brook, N. J., will give stereoscopic views and lectures of the World's Fair, on the evening of Jan. 16, in the Flatbush Reformed Church. On Wednesday evening, Jan. 17, this entertainment will be given at the Reformed Chapel, Glasco."

This from Allgerville: "Dr. N. A. Monroe will continue his practice at this place. He may be called by telephone from the store of Daniel Schoonmaker or T. C. Harnden."

This from Binnewater: "The explosion of the powder mill was felt very plainly in this place. Pieces of wall and window glass being broken by the jar in some houses . . . A great many people from this place visited the scene of the powder mill explosion Sunday last."

This from St. Remy: "Our tax collector is around gathering in what he can. Taxes are higher than last year . . . If the taxpayer would examine the town charges he would learn something . . . The district school, under charge of Miss Simpson, held their entertainment at Ulster Park on Saturday evening, Jan. 6. Proceeds to be applied towards the purchase of an organ for the school."

More from St. Remy (Jan. 10, 1894) "Samuel Haines, having finished his blacksmith work at Greenkills, is now at work at his own shop . . . Through the efforts of Augustus York, a lamp has been placed between the church and shed. This was something very much needed during dark nights for those who came from a distance with horses. Butter is 30 cents a pound, eggs are 35 a dozen."

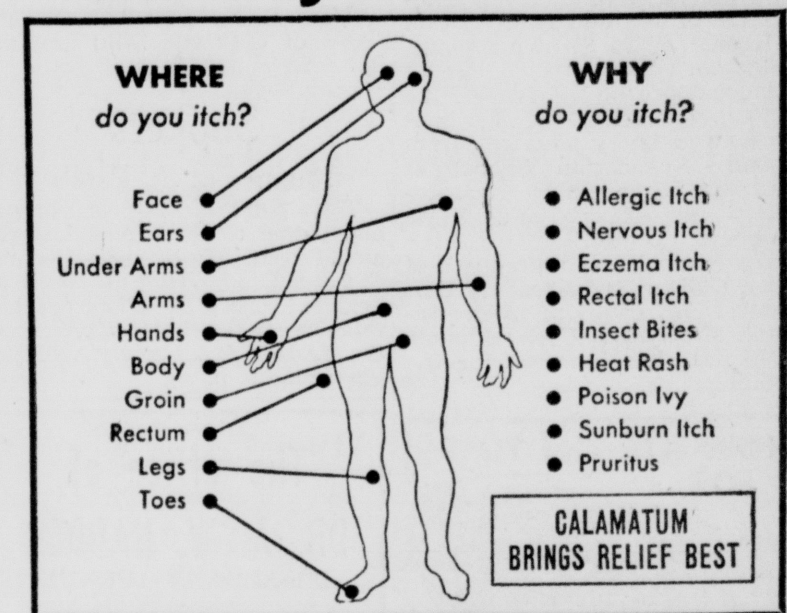

Under "Deaths" following item: "In this city, Jan. 5, 1894, Hon. Marius Schoonmaker, aged 82 years, 8 mos. and 11 days."

He is best known today for his excellent book "History of Kingston, New York" written in 1888. At the time of his death he was working on the life of the famous Kingston artist, John Vanderlyn, whom he knew personally as mentioned here before. Schoonmaker was born in Kingston April 24, 1811. His father, Zachariah Schoonmaker, graduated from Union College and became a lawyer of ability. Marius was a lineal descendant of Hendrick Jochimsen Schoonmaker, who came here from Hamburg and settled in this county, Marius' grandfather was Cornelius Schoonmaker, a surveyor of prominence, also a member of the State Convention who de-

Conway-Tully Jr. Nuptials Announced; Bride Wears Gown of Imported Italian Silk

Nuptial vows were exchanged Saturday, July 4, by Miss Eileen Mary Conway, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Peter Conway of 101 Hoffman Street, and James Henry Tully Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James Henry Tully of Brooklyn and High Falls.

The wedding took place at St. Peter's Church with the Rev. Martin F. Tully officiating. It was a double ring ceremony. The Rev. Father Tully is the bridegroom's uncle. He is pastor of St. Gertrude's Church, Edgemere, L. I. Also present for the ceremony was the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Joseph D. Ostermann, pastor of St. Peter's Church.

Miss Anne Goldrick was organist and Richard Scherer, soloist. Vases of white gladioli and majestic daisies decorated the church. The family pews were marked with white satin bows.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a modified Empire gown of imported Italian white silk and Belgian lace styled with a sweep train. Her headpiece was a Juliet cap of Belgian lace and it held a fingertip veil of French illusion. She carried her mother's bridal prayer book covered with gladioli and lily-of-the-valley.

The bride's cousin, Miss Rosemary Conway of 80 Emerson Street, this city, served as maid of honor. She was attired in a French blue silk organdy gown styled on Empire lines and a blue silk headband. She carried a firsides basket of delfinium, yellow daisies, roses and ivy.

William Dobbins Tully of Brooklyn and High Falls was best man for his brother. The bridegroom's brothers, Martin and Robert, also served as ushers along with Dr. Kenneth Johnson, the bridegroom's brother-in-law, and John Stephen Clark of Queens Village, L. I.

A wedding reception was given at the Governor Clinton Hotel. A graduate of Academy of St. Ursula and Regis College, Weston, Mass., the bride studied at the Villa Schifanoia Fine Arts Graduate School in Florence, Italy. She is employed as a fashion stylist for Simplicity Pattern Company, New York City.

The bridegroom was graduated from Brooklyn Preparatory School, Brooklyn, and Georgetown University, Washington, D. C. He is completing studies at the Columbia Law School. He also served as a lieutenant with the U. S. Army.

For her wedding trip, the bride chose to wear a red pique suit with a white straw cloche, black straw handbag and shoes. Mr. and Mrs. Tully Jr. will reside at 11 Montgomery Place, Brooklyn.

TOO FEW CANDIES FOR ALL
Dear Mrs. Post: I would like to know what is proper in this situation: Suppose you are out with a group of people when suddenly your throat becomes dry and you decide to put a candy drop in your mouth. There aren't enough in the package to offer around. Should you mention the fact that you'd like to offer them but don't have enough, or should you put it in your mouth, return the remaining few to your purse, and say nothing?

Answer: You can say as you take one "I have a tickle in my throat and must take a cough drop." Then offering the package, continue, "Would anyone like one?" Very probably your companions seeing that there are only a few drops left will not take any, but whatever they do, you will have relieved your throat and been polite by offering what you had.

Chaperoned By a Young Couple

Dear Mrs. Post: I am twenty and a young man whom I see often and think a great deal of, though there is nothing serious in our friendship, has asked me to spend my vacation motoring with him and a young married couple. The latter are about thirty. I know them slightly but they are well thought of in our town and are good friends of his. They expect to stop off at motels and we would be gone two weeks. Will this be proper?

Answer: The married couple who will accompany you will be all the chaperone even Mrs. Grundy would want you to have.

Choosing Between Father and Stepfather

Dear Mrs. Post: My mother and father were divorced about ten years ago and since that time my father has remarried. My father left when I was still a child and I have seen very little of him during these years. I have grown very fond of my stepfather who has been very good to me. Would it be proper to have him walk up the aisle with me and give me away rather than my own father?

Answer: If your own father will be present at the wedding, you will be repudiating him in the eyes of the world if you have your stepfather give you away.

Mrs. Post offers readers leaflets on a variety of subjects concerning etiquette. If you would like to have her leaflet E-36, entitled, "The New Baby," send 10 cents in coin to Dept. E. P., care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 90, Station G, New York 19, N. Y. Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. (Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Father, 2 Daughters, Friend Are Drowned

CORINTH, N. Y. (AP)—A father, his two daughters and another man were drowned Sunday when a homemade, outboard motorboat capsized in a lake. Before drowning, the father saved four children, including his two sons.

The accident occurred about 50 yards offshore in Elmer Lake, in the lower Adirondacks, where the group was picnicking. The victims were Richard Hustis, 49, of Newcomb, his daughters, Myrtle, 5, and Lucy, 7, and Jay Dorsett, 58, of Corinth, builder of the 12-foot boat.

State Police said Hustis swam back and forth to shore and pulled his two sons, 6 and 9 years old, and two other children, aged 2 and 3, to safety. He died as he tried to return for his two daughters.

The girls floundered in the water and failed to heed their father's shouts to grasp the partially submerged gunwales of the boat.

Dorsett could not swim, troopers said.

Father Amazed At Money Offer For New Triplets

SOUTHPORT, N.C. (AP)—"Who would think I would ever allow my children to be sold?" Nathan B. Miller, $25-a-week farmhand, shook his head in amazement as he described a reported offer for the newborn triplet girls he may offer for adoption to give them a better chance in life.

The 35-year-old father, who has three other children, said an unidentified long distance telephone caller promised him the money. Miller, who is hard of hearing, said: "I believe he said $50,000 each, but it may have been $5,000. I may be poor, but nothing would make me part with any of my family for money. I think the offer was an insult."

His 35-year-old wife agreed. "We couldn't possibly consider offers like these. I hope we get no more," she said.

The parents plan to decide today whether to offer 10-day-old Glenda, Brenda and Linda for adoption. They also will decide whether to accept any of the scores of offers of financial and job help that have come to the family.

CAPTAIN NEWKIRK HOUSE—Among the 13 stone houses included in the Hurley Open House tour is the Captain Newkirk house, overlooking the Esopus Valley. Built before 1750, it is now the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McKinnon. It has never been included in the stone house tours before.

ANOTHER NEWKIRK HOUSE—Also on the tour will be the stone house built about 1750 by Gerrit Newkirk and now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. John J. Hoffer. The tour will be held Saturday, July 11, from 11 a. m. to 5 p. m., starting from the Hurley Reformed Church. Buses will be used to reach houses beyond the village. (Freeman photos)

Hurley Open House Day to Be Held July 11 Will Feature Tour of 13 Old Stone Homes

Open house day for the old Dutch stone houses of Hurley will be held Saturday, July 11, from 11 a. m. to 5 p. m. Thirteen of the 25 pre-Revolutionary houses of Hurley will be open this year including some which have never been open before or have not been shown in several years. Hurley has the greatest concentration of these old Dutch stone houses to be found anywhere. The village street, which was the old King's Highway, is lined with 10 18th century houses, one of which is still occupied by the family to whom the original land grant was made almost 300 years ago.

An innovation this year will be bus service from the Hurley Reformed Church to those houses on the tour which are beyond walking distance. Two busses will be employed and their use will be included in the price of the tour. Registration for the tour may be made at the Hurley church on open house day. The ladies of the Women's Guild of the church, who are the sponsors of open house day, will serve a cafeteria of home cooked foods in the church basement starting at 12 noon and continuing throughout the hours of the tour.

On the bus tour will be two houses on Route 209. One which has not been shown recently is the Cornelius T. Cool House, presently owned by Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Waligurski. This handsome old house was begun as a one-room Dutch dwelling in 1690 and was finished in the English mansion style in the early 1700's. It is one of the few of English design in the Hudson Valley and is strikingly similar in style to the Whyte House in Williamsburg, Virginia.

The charming home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest LeFever, probably dating from the late 1790's and owned and occupied for a great many years by the Houghtaling family, will also be open.

The bus will then cross the Esopus to the Brink homestead which had been in the Brink family for nine generations since 1661 until it was recently bought by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Jones who now make it their home.

Going back along the mountain toward Dug Hill, the Captain Newkirk house will be found high on a bluff overlooking the valley of the Esopus. So far separated from the rest of the village, its location provided some natural protection to its original owners when it was built before 1750. It is now the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McKinnon and has never been open before on Stone House Day.

Another Newkirk house which has not been shown for some time is the one near the Mattys Ten Eyck house along the mountain road toward Route 28. Gerrit Newkirk and Ten Eyck purchased the property jointly in 1709 for the purpose of building a mill on the swift-running brook nearby. Later Newkirk bought a share of the property outright. The present house, built somewhere between 1750 and 1760, is presently the home of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Hoffer.

Mattys Ten Eyck built his house across the road at about the same time. Somewhere around 1800 a Ten Eyck girl married a DeWitt and fell heir to the old homestead. This lovely old house which has been in the DeWitt family ever since will also be open this year. Owned by the Misses Anna and Cornelia DeWitt, it is occupied at present by Dr. and Mrs. David S. Gergarg.

New this year will be three snack bars organized and run by the Youth Group of the Hurley Reformed Church. They will be located at the Cool House, the Hurley Library and at the DeWitt House on the mountain road. After the closing of the stone houses, the young people will combine the three snack bars at the library to serve those who wish to stay over for the evening event, the Hurley Cantata, which will be performed in the open air beside the historic old church at 7 p. m.

The cantata will depict in dramatic narrative and folk song the story of Hurley. Written and directed by Carolyn Waligurski, who has composed some new songs and ballads for the occasion, it will be sung by the Hurley Festival Chorus of 50 voices.

The new Stone House brochures are already circulating and may be picked up free of charge at the Chamber of Commerce offices, the Senate House and Museum, O'Reilly's, at Schoonmaker's Gift Shop and Kent's in Hurley, as well as in grocery stores and shops in Hurley, West Hurley and Woodstock. The brochure is the second in a series of three, planned to picture and describe all of the old stone houses and other points of interest in Hurley township.

God Bless the Tar Heel Boys

According to one tradition, General Robert E. Lee gave North Carolinians their nickname of "Tar Heel." For many years tar, pitch and turpentine were among North Carolina's chief products. After hearing how a group of North Carolina regiments refused to retreat and how they eventually won one of the bloodiest battles of the War Between the States, General Lee reportedly said: "God bless the Tar Heel boys." Another legend cites Cornwallis' soldiers as giving North Carolina the nickname Tar Heel.

Seaway Called Dream of Explorer

ROUSES POINT, N. Y. (AP)—The French ambassador to Canada says the St. Lawrence Seaway culminates a dream that French explorer Samuel de Champlain had 350 years ago.

Ambassador Francis La Coste said that Champlain, who discovered Lake Champlain in 1609, later went to the Great Lakes and "envisioned the wonderful possibilities of a continuous waterway from Lake Superior to the ocean."

La Coste spoke Saturday at a celebration marking the 350th anniversary of the discovery of Lake Champlain.

Champlain and his party entered the lake from the Richelieu River near here.

His arrival was re-enacted Saturday by Air Force S. Sgt. Samuel de Champlain of Norwich, Conn., a descendant of the explorer.

A party of Indians accompanied the sergeant. Some were Algonquins. Others were college boys made up for their parts.

The party will trace the route followed by Samuel de Champlain to Fort Ticonderoga. The band stopped Sunday at Burlington, Vt.

The Indians are travelling in station wagons and launch their birch-bark canoes within a short distance of their destinations. They have scheduled a 23-day trip.

Hearing on Three Ordinances Projects Various Opinions But Is Far From Conclusive

Woodstock Town Board adjourned a public hearing on three proposed ordinances, following spirited discussion and debate on two of the measures. About 25 taxpayers were present.

The proposed town ordinances would create an anti-littering law, effect uniform posting of property and a regulatory agency for junk yards. After hearing considerable testimony and various shades of opinion on the littering and junk yard proposals, Supervisor Joseph Fitzsimmons, chairman of the Town Board, announced the discussions would be resumed at a later date.

In explaining the posting ordinance, least controversial of the three, Attorney Abram F. Molyneux, legal adviser of the board, said it would give property owners whose property is violated or trespassed recourse within the township. At the present time he has no recourse but a civil suit. If individual property owners post lands, it must be done in strict compliance with State Conservation Law at the present time.

In response to a question from the floor, Molyneux said the ordinance was not designed as an anti-littering proposal. The measure proposed he said, to give protection to the property owner and hunters caught trespassing would be charged with a misdemeanor.

Causes Spirited Debate Several taxpayers joined in the debate on various aspects of the anti-littering ordinance. A show of hands indicated an overwhelming majority of taxpayers in favor of some action on a problem that has caused considerable concern in recent years.

The ordinance proposed by Attorney Molyneux was patterned after one in effect at Huntington, L. I., with some modifications. The regulation would be enforced by local constables and violators would be charged with an offense. The Huntington ordinance makes a violation a misdemeanor subject to $100 fine and a six-months prison term. The board suggested local violations be regarded as offenses.

Areas designated as those with acute litter problems within the township include the village green and opposite the village green, the general business section and the area near Sully's swimming hole. The ordinance would have no control over private property.

A suggestion that a street cleaning department be created in the township resulted in long discussion on the legal contingencies. In the first place a special district, comparable to the water and fire district, would have to be set up. Taxpayers would have to circulate a petition requiring the signatures and consent of owners of 51 per cent of the property involved that they would share the cost of the special service.

As Strong Deterrent

Some taxpayers took the position that the anti-littering ordinance and warning signs would be a strong deterrent to potential violators. It was noted that constables could give warnings to first time violators, then make arrest for continual violations.

Two local attorneys — Daniel Revzan of Byrdcliffe Road and Maurice Goldberg of Wittenberg and Kingston—engaged in lengthy debate on the merits of the ordinance. In essence Revzan expressed strong doubt that the ordinance could be enforced, while Goldberg took the position that it would be a deterrent to potential violators and as such had considerable merit and deserved a trial.

On the subject of littering, Supervisor Fitzsimmons pointed out that three receptacles, first ever purchased by the township, would soon be placed in strategic locations. Appropriate signs will be painted by Councilman John Pike and will be attached to the receptacles.

The proposed ordinance regulating junk yards submitted by attorney Molyneux was patterned after one now in existence at Oyster Bay and is designed to regulate places of business that deal in "junk and second hand material."

Molyneux said the township could not prohibit establishment of junk yards, but had the right to regulate them and make them assets to the community. A regulating ordinance, he said, would be the only kind feasible.

Clash of Principles

The ancient principle of aesthetic values versus private property right was eloquently expounded by attorney Revzan, who firmly opposed it on the grounds that neither the description nor authority to enforce it were specific enough. Molyneux emphasized that the ordinance was designed to regulate and not abolish junk yards. He said, however, he felt the restrictions and regulations embodied in the Oyster Bay ordinance were sound.

A question from the floor elicited from Molyneux an opinion that the "second hand material" section might in some cases apply to antique shops. Revzan ended his discussion with a statement that he strongly opposed any infringement on private rights.

Attorney Goldberg said the difference of opinion on the junk yard ordinance was largely a conflict between aesthetic principles and private property. The debate was brought to a close after attorney Molyneux observed that the discussion was degenerating into a battle of semantics and chairman Fitzsimmons announced the adjournment.

Members of the board present included Supervisor Fitzsimmons, Councilman Tobie Geertsema, Justices of the Peace Dixon McGrath and Charles Farley and Marjorie Harder, clerk. Councilman John Pike was absent.

'The Diary of Anne Frank' Opens Tuesday at Playhouse

One of this century's greatest theatrical successes has been chosen as the next play at the Woodstock Playhouse. This is "The Diary of Anne Frank," the dramatization of a teenage girl's day-to-day record of two years in hiding with her parents and a neighboring family in wartime Holland.

The play ran for 90 weeks on Broadway and won every possible honor, including the Pulitzer Prize and the New York Drama Critics' Award. Under the direction of M. David Samuels, it will be performed at the Woodstock Playhouse for six nights beginning Tuesday, July 7.

The diary was written by Anne when she was just 13 and, over the course of two years, she made entries vividly chronicling the problems, the courage, the quarrels and the discomforts of the eight people cooped up in the cramped loft. But the play is never grim. It is an enduring and often even gaily comic portrait. This is because the girl who wrote the diary was a typical hoydenish teenager who confided to her diary her scraps with her mother, her burgeoning love for the young son of another couple sharing the hide-out, and the affections and irritations that plagued the confined refugees.

Has Superb Cast The cast has been assembled with particular care. Reuben Singer will have the role of Otto Frank, the wise, strong head of the family, who, with no heroics organizes and sustains the refugee colony in their hideout. Singer, appropriately, is originally from the Habimah (the Israeli) stage. Lois, who played the part on the national tour of the production will be seen as his daughter, the blithe and sumptuous Anne.

Gina Petruska, a product of the Kulturbund Theatre of Berlin and herself a refugee from Nazism, will be Anne's unassertive mother. Ann Whiteside will portray Anne's placid older sister, Estelle Ritchie, who will be seen as the frivolous mother of the other family sharing the refuge.

Completing the cast are Frederick Young as her greedy, grouchy husband and Peter Levin as their shy son with whom Anne falls in love. Levin played the same part in the original Broadway company. Darren Tucker will enact the 8th member of the hideout colony, an amusingly crotchety dentist.

Welland Canal Is Blocked by Vessels

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (AP)—Traffic in the jam-plugged Welland Canal was blocked again today while workers tried to hoist a tug that sank in lock 4 on Saturday, drowning its captain.

Nearly 50 ships were waiting in Lake Ontario to use the canal's up-bound waterway.

The 55-ton construction tug Gran Bank sank, for the second time this year, when the lock's water level was being raised. Capt. Ernest Fiander, 62, North Sidney, N. S., jumped free of the sinking vessel but was sucked under the turbulent water as it rushed into the lock. His body was recovered Sunday. Three crewmen jumped free.

Last March the tug sank in Toronto harbor following a collision with a dredge.

Many Ways to Play Big Slam

By OSWALD JACOBY

Written for NEA Service

If you can keep your eyes off the East and West hands for awhile, see how you would play the seven spade contract.

As a starter what card do you discard on the ace of hearts at trick one? The answer is that you don't play the ace of hearts at trick one. You should play low and ruff. The discard will keep.

Then you should play a couple of rounds of trumps and the ace and king of diamonds. If you drop the queen your troubles are over. If you don't drop the queen go over to dummy with a third trump, discard the jack of diamonds on the ace of hearts and ruff a diamond. Maybe the suit will break 3-3 in which case dummy's last diamond will furnish a parking place for your jack of clubs.

If that does not work either you should cash one high club, go dummy with the fourth trump and try the club finesse.

Now if you look at the East and West cards you can see that the queen of diamonds did drop on the second lead of the suit.

Countess Adios Is Expected To See Much Action at Goshen

GOSHEN, N. Y.—One of the most heralded two year olds in recent years is now enjoying the quiet atmosphere of century old Historic Track.

Countess Adios, of the Del Miller stable, is just one of the many honored guests waiting race time at Historic. They don't have long to wait. The Grand Circuit meet begins today. Miller will rein Countess Adios in the $12,000 Debutante Stake on opening day. Undoubtedly, the beautiful Countess will go away the favorite. Her trainer-driver has given her the best of recommendations: "The best two year old I've ever driven," he says.

Castleton Farm has taken over the long row of stables at the end of the track overlooking the homestead, Frank Ervin and a dozen of Castleton's finest took up residence in the past two days. Ervin will send Wonderful Time into battle on opening day in the $10,500 Ladyship Stake to do battle against a possible Del Miller entry Julia Frost and Rosemary Frost, both three year old fillies by the famous sire Adios.

Impressive Array

In the stables that line up in military fashion behind the Hall of Fame of the Trotter, Billy Haughton has displayed one of the most impressive arrays of trotters and pacers at Historic. Hickory Pride, the Star's Pride

Cards 145 Gross To Edge Dungey

Herb Waterous, youngest member of the Waterous circuit family, overcame a five-stroke deficit to Bill Van Aken to capture his second Warren Townley Memorial golf crown with a 36-hole total of 145 at Woodstock Country Club over the weekend.

A first round 75 on Saturday left Waterous five strokes behind Van Aken, who matched par with 35-35-70, and two behind Harold Dungey, donor of the trophy, who carded 36-37-73.

Sharing low net honors were Bob Earley and Hank Schweizer with 6-under-par 134s. Earley put together rounds of 79 and 87 for 166 gross and had 32 handicap. Schweizer shot 88-84-172-38-134.

In the battle for the coveted low gross trophy, Waterous picked up 2 strokes on Van Aken Sunday with a 35, then ran away from the club champion who soared to a 44 on the back nine for an aggregate 81, the highest competitive nine he has ever recorded at Woodstock.

Dungey, out in 40, rallied with birdies on the second and fifth holes to match par figures for a 75 and second place in the gross with 148. Van Aken finished with 151.

Veteran Reinsman to Drive At Monticello This Week

MONTICELLO — One of the leading reinsmen on the grand circuit—John F. Simpson—plans a busy Tuesday and Wednesday driving at Monticello Raceway.

Simpson has four horses on the Monticello card Wednesday night—all promising two year olds. They are Refreight, Bullet Hanover, Romola Hanover and Bomarc.

The Maitland, Fla., horseman will offer a treat to early arrivals Tuesday evening. During the regular 6:30 p. m., Qualifying races he has entered Latona Hanover, Yours Truly, Adolf Hanover, Adio Win and Transporter.

Later in the evening he will be in the sulky behind Swift Water in the first race Tuesday.

The top driver on the Grand Circuit in 1957, Simpson is once again on the move toward the top honors. In 1957 he won $367,670 in Grand Circuit purses. The same year he was acclaimed the leading driver in the nation under the Universal driver rating system with an amazing 419 percentage.

While he is at nearby Goshen for the annual Grand Circuit stop Simpson plans to take advantage of driving both night and day. He told Monticello officials he is looking forward to putting his horses through their paces on the Monticello half mile oval.

Son of Clergyman Safe With Friends, Missing Six Days

Douglas Klaus, 13, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Edward J. Klaus, 93 Harwich Street, who has been missing from home since last Tuesday, is safe and with friends at Faribault, Minn., according to his mother.

Although only 13 years old, the boy appeared determined to find work for the summer before he left home.

Mrs. Klaus told a Freeman reporter today, "we all feel easier to know he is safe and with good friends." She said her son telephoned home at 10 o'clock Sunday night to inform his parents he is at the home of William Minnich, at Faribault where Mr. Klaus was pastor of the First Assembly of God Church until about five years ago when the family moved to this city.

Mrs. Klaus said her son hitchhiked all the way to Minnesota, and he went to the Minnich home where friends of the family insisted that he notify his parents of his whereabouts. "Douglas had $12 with him when he left home," Mrs. Klaus said. "He spent five nights on the open road sleeping in a sleeping bag."

The boy's parents are sending him plane fare for his return trip home. His mother said the Minnichs will drive the boy from Faribault to Minneapolis where he will board a plane within a few days for Newark, N. J. airport. His parents plan to meet him when he arrives and drive him home.

The Rev. Mr. Klaus is pastor of the Bethel Assembly of God, Esopus Avenue, Town of Ulster. Police have been notified the boy is safe and is expected home later in the week.

SCOUTS DISTRIBUTE ZINNIA BOXES—Saugerties Council Boy Scouts of Troop 130, and Pack 32, display 15 completed flower boxes and zinnias—the official flower of Saugerties—which they placed in front of store windows Friday in Saugerties Village business district in preparation for the July 4 parade. These and many more to be assembled by the Scouts are a project designed to decorate the village for the Hudson-Champlain celebration in Saugerties. Scouts lending a hand are (l-r) Benjamin Dillon and Fred Stoll of Pack 32, Henry Stoll of troop 130. (Freeman photo.)

Many Thousands

gerties Antique Auto Club and Woodstock Motor Club were in the fifth and eighth divisions.

Musical marching units included Saugerties Drum Corps, Ghent Band and Tivoli Drum Corps supplied by C. A. Lynch Fire Company; Father Hart's Drum Corps, Boy Scout Troop 12 Drum Corps of Kingston; Catskill Boys Club, VFW Drum Corps of Joyce-Schrick Post, Kingston, and Hudson American Legion Corps of Post 184.

The New York-New Jersey baseball game between the Saugerties Dutchmen and the Poughkeepsie Hoe-Bowl was held in the afternoon. Results may be found on the sports pages.

In the evening at dusk many thousands gathered at Cantine Memorial Field for the fireworks display. In a short ceremony before the fireworks Town Supervisor Peter M. Williams led in the pledge of allegiance, and Donald S. Fellows, editor of the Catskill Mountain Star sang the National Anthem.

Queen Presents Awards

The presentation of awards was made by the Saugerties Junior Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the three-day celebration following the ceremony. Miss Saugerties of 1960 presented the awards, and announced the winning floats.

Friday evening the three-day celebration started with a block dance in the main business section of the village. A crowd estimated at well over 5,000 gathered on Main Street between Partition and Market Street for dancing to the music of Bascom Dillon and his Hudson-Champlainers.

A replica of the Half-Moon which was the float entered in the parade by the local Jaycees, was used as a bandstand. Miss Saugerties and her attendants, Denise Rethier of Flatbush and Carole Larsen of Fish Creek were introduced and participated in the first square dance set.

Later in the evening the winners of the board growing contest and the old time costume competition were announced.

Has Best Beard

Frank Hughes won the $25 cash first award for the fullest and best all-around beard. Jack Kerbert was the winner for the best looking beard, and a special award was given to Nunzio Isgro of Blue Mountain for the most unusual beard. His was parted in three colors—red, white and blue. There were 25 entries.

Louise Boice won the award for the best female costume, and John Gade and his family won the award for the best family in costume. William Wingate of Woodstock, a judge was presented with a token award for his costume. Twenty-four were entered.

The Hudson-Champlainers also played for dancing at the tennis courts of Cantine Field following the fireworks Saturday night.

More than 70 antique cars entered from New York and four neighboring states participated in the second annual antique auto show sponsored by Saugerties Antique Auto Club at Cantine Field Sunday afternoon.

Only One Mishap

The only mishap reported during the three-day celebration was to Ralph Mayone, a Saugerties town constable who received a bad burn on his left arm from a firecracker exploded by someone during the fireworks display Saturday night, according to Constable Charles Riley.

Damaged Freighter Sails

MASSENA, N. Y. (AP)—A Lebanese freighter, grounded after a collision with another ship in the St. Lawrence Seaway, sailed for Montreal Saturday.

A metal plate covered the lower part of a gash in the bow of the ship, the Taxiarius. It was grounded last Tuesday after a collision with the Carl Julius, a German ship from Hamburg. The Carl Julius was damaged slightly.

Seward Honored At Flag Raising In Auburn City

AUBURN, N. Y. (AP)—Auburn's Fourth of July was a big celebration for a famous son, William H. Seward.

Seward, as secretary of state, purchased Alaska from Russia in 1867 for $7,200,000.

Four congressmen, scores of dignitaries and a crowd of 15,000 watched a new, 49-star flag, representing the addition of Alaska to the Union, hoisted in Seward Park.

Then a two-hour parade passed through this city of 40,000 in central New York.

Stamp collectors gathered at the local post office, where a new, 49-star, four-cent stamp went on sale for the first time. The collectors mostly were after first-day cancellations, issued only here.

Rep. Charles Halleck (R-Ind), House minority leader, brought greetings from President Eisenhower, Ralph S. Allen, a grandson of Seward, introduced Ralph J. Rivers, Alaska's first representative in Congress.

Other congressmen on hand were Leo O'Brien, Albany Democrat who sponsored the Alaskan statehood bill, and John Taber, Auburn Republican.

Recently Married Navy Man Killed in Mishap

NEWTON, Mass. (AP)—Harry T. Evans, 22, a Navy sailor from Shickshinny, Pa., who his shipmates said was married some time during the weekend, was killed early today in the collision of a passenger car and a trailer truck.

Evans and four other sailors, all assigned to the USS van Vorhis, at Boston, were pitched into the street by the impact. The four survivors said they were on their way back from Evans' wedding. All were reported badly hurt and in shock and police said all were vague about the wedding.

Evans was dead on entrance at Newton-Wellesley Hospital where the other four Navy men were taken. They were listed as James J. Caruso Jr., 19, Ozone Park, N. Y., described as the operator of the car; Christopher Leach, 19, of West Haverstraw, N. Y.; Raymond H. Potter, 21, West Caldwell, N. J.; Charles Caffaro, 21, Patterson, N. Y.

Mahlon F. Herner, 48, of Utica, N. Y., the truck driver, apparently was unhurt.

Police Lt. J. W. Corcoran said Herner would be charged with manslaughter.

Bridegroom Faces Up to 305 Years For 38 Burglaries

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Barton Gladstone's wedding kiss may have to last him a long time.

Today he goes before Judge William T. Harvey in criminal court for sentencing on 38 burglaries he has confessed. He could receive up to 305 years in prison.

The bride, dark-haired Ethel Lee Bostick, spent Sunday night praying her 28-year-old bridegroom does not get the limit. The wedding in Duval County jail Sunday was arranged by Warden Tom Heaney. Justice of the Peace Dorcas B. Drake, who presided at Gladstone's arraignment 113 days ago, performed the ceremony.

Mrs. Drake told the couple "All the marriages I have performed have lasted. I'm sure this one will, too."

Gladstone smiled ruefully when someone remarked he had lipstick on his face. "That kiss may have to last me a long, long time," he said.

Buy's Antique Chest, Finds President's Pills

LITTLETON, N.C. (AP)—Mrs. Marvin Breedlove Jr. of Henderson found a bonus when she bought an antique chest.

In it, she found a bottle of assorted pills prescribed for Martin Van Buren, eighth president of the United States.

The prescription, written in red ink in spidery handwriting, carried the following instructions:

Small — laxatives at night.

Large reds — nerves — as needed.

"Brown-digestives—one or two at meals."

"Pink-headache—½ to 1."

"Black — liver — 1 at night if needed."

The prescription was signed by a Dr. Jones.
